“Sec. 506B. Annual personnel levels assessment for the intelligence community.”.

3 SEC. 306. TEMPORARY PERSONNEL AUTHORIZATIONS FOR 4 CRITICAL LANGUAGE TRAINING.

5 (a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following find-6 ings:

7 (1) In 2009, eight years after the terrorist at-8 tacks of September 11, 2001, the intelligence com-9 munity continues to lack an adequate supply of per-10 sonnel trained in critical foreign languages.

11 (2) A number of elements of the intelligence 12 community are attempting to address that lack of 13 supply by recruiting applicants who can speak, read, 14 and understand critical foreign languages.

15 (3) Leaders in the intelligence community have 16 recognized that improved recruiting practices are 17 only a partial solution and that improved language 18 training for current intelligence community employ-19 ees is also necessary.

20 (4) While language education and instruction
21 provides long-term benefits for both intelligence 22 agencies and individual employees, it has short-term 23 costs for supervisors whose staff are absent due to 24 language training and could provide supervisors with

1 an incentive to resist allowing individual employees
2 to pursue language training.

3 (5) If the head of an element of the intelligence 4 community was able to increase the number of per-5 sonnel at that element during the period that an em-
6 ployee is participating in language training, that ele-7 ment would not have to sacrifice short-term prior-8 ities to address language training needs.

9 (6) The Director of National Intelligence is 10 uniquely situated to evaluate language training 11 needs across the intelligence community and assess 12 whether that training would be enhanced if elements 13 of the intelligence community were given temporary 14 additional personnel authorizations.

15 (7) The intelligence community has a difficult 16 time finding, training, and providing security clear-17 ances to native foreign language speakers who are 18 able to serve as translators and it would be bene-
19 ficial if all elements of the intelligence community
20 were able to harness the capabilities of these individ-21 uals.

22 (8) The Director of National Intelligence is 23 uniquely situated to identify translators within the 24 intelligence community and provide for their tem-

1 porary transfer from one element of the intelligence 2 community to another element.

3 (b) TEMPORARY PERSONNEL AUTHORIZATIONS.—

4 (1) AUTHORIZED ADDITIONAL FTES.—In addi-
5 tion to the number of full-time equivalent positions 6 authorized for the Office of the Director of National 7 Intelligence for a fiscal year, there is authorized for 8 such Office for each fiscal year an additional 100
9 full-time equivalent positions that may be utilized 10 only for the purposes described in paragraph (2).

11 (2) PURPOSES.—The Director of National In-12 telligence may use a full-time equivalent position au-
13 thorized under paragraph (1) only for the purposes
14 of providing a temporary transfer of personnel made 15 pursuant to the authority in section 102A(e)(2) of 16 the National Security Act of 1947 (50 U.S.C. 403– 17 1(e)(2)) to an element of the intelligence community 18 to enable such element to increase its total author-19 ized number of personnel, on a temporary basis—

20 (A) during a period in which a permanent 21 employee of such element is absent to partici-
22 pate in critical language training; or

23 (B) to accept a permanent employee of an-24 other element of the intelligence community to

1 provide language-capable services a temporary 2 basis.

3 (c) INAPPLICABILITY OF OTHER LAW.—Subpara-
4 graph (B) of section 102A(e)(2) of the National Security 5 Act of 1947 (50 U.S.C. 403–1(e)(2)) shall not apply to 6 a transfer of personnel authorizations made under this 7 section.

8 (d) REPORTING REQUIREMENTS.—

9 (1) REPORT TO THE DIRECTOR OF NATIONAL 10 INTELLIGENCE.—An element of the intelligence com-11 munity that receives a temporary transfer of per-12 sonnel authorized under subsection (b) shall submit 13 to the Director of National Intelligence a report on 14 such transfer that includes the length of time of the 15 temporary transfer and which critical language need 16 of such element was fulfilled or partially fulfilled by 17 the transfer.

18 (2) ANNUAL REPORT TO CONGRESS.—The Di-19 rector of National Intelligence shall submit to the 20 congressional intelligence committees an annual re-
21 port on this section. Each such report shall include 22 a description of—

23 (A) the number of transfers of personnel
24 made by the Director pursuant to subsection

1 (b), disaggregated by each element of the intel-2 ligence community;

TITLE VI—FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE AND INFORMATION COMMISSION ACT

1 United States of America released by the Director of 2 National Intelligence on October 26, 2005.

4 STATES INTELLIGENCE COMMUNITY AND 2006 AN-

8 port of the United States Intelligence Community 9 released by the Director of National Intelligence in 10 February 2007.

11 (3) COMMISSION.—The term “Commission”

13 Commission established in section 604(a).

14 (4) FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE, INTELLIGENCE.—
15 The terms “foreign intelligence” and “intelligence” 16 have the meaning given those terms in section 3 of 17 the National Security Act of 1947 (50 U.S.C. 401a).

18 (5) INFORMATION.—The term “information”
19 includes information of relevance to the foreign pol-
20 icy of the United States collected and conveyed 21 through diplomatic reporting and other reporting by 22 personnel of the Government of the United States
23 who are not employed by an element of the intel-
24 ligence community, including public and open-source 25 information.

1 (6) STRATEGIC PLAN OF THE DEPARTMENT OF 2 STATE.—The term “Strategic Plan of the Depart-3 ment of State” means the Strategic Plan for Fiscal 4 Years 2007–2012 of the Department of State and 5 the United States Agency for International Develop-6 ment revised on May 7, 2007.

7 SEC. 603. FINDINGS.

8 Congress makes the following findings:

9 (1) Accurate, timely, and comprehensive foreign 10 intelligence and information are critical to the na-
11 tional security of United States and the furtherance 12 of the foreign policy goals of the United States.

13 (2) It is in the national security and foreign 14 policy interest of the United States to ensure the 15 global deployment of personnel of the Government of 16 the United States who are responsible for collecting 17 and reporting foreign intelligence and information, 18 including personnel from the intelligence community,
19 the Department of State, and other agencies and de-
20 partments of the Government of the United States,
21 and that adequate resources are committed to effect
22 such collection and reporting.

23 (3) The 2005 National Intelligence Strategy
24 and the 2006 Annual Report of the United States
25 Intelligence Community identified 5 major missions

1 of the intelligence community to support the na-
2 tional security requirements of the United States,
3 the first 2 of which, defeating terrorism and pre-4 venting and countering the spread of weapons of 5 mass destruction, are global and transnational in na-6 ture.

7 (4) The third major mission identified by the 8 2005 National Intelligence Strategy and the 2006
9 Annual Report, bolstering the growth of democracy
10 and sustaining peaceful democratic states, requires a 11 global commitment of collection, reporting, and ana-12 lytical capabilities.

13 (5) The 2005 National Intelligence Strategy
14 and the 2006 Annual Report identify as a major 15 mission the need to “anticipate developments of 16 strategic concern and identify opportunities as well 17 as vulnerabilities for decision makers”.

18 (6) The 2006 Annual Report provides the fol-
19 lowing:

20 (A) “In a world in which developments in 21 distant reaches of the globe can quickly affect 22 American citizens and interests at home and 23 abroad, the Intelligence Community must alert
24 policy makers to problems before they escalate 25 and provide insights into their causes and effects. Analysis must do more than just describe what is happening and why; it must identify a range of opportunities for (and likely consequences of) diplomatic, military, law enforcement, economic, financial, or homeland security action. To support policymakers, the Intelligence Community should develop, sustain, and maintain access to expertise on every region, every transnational security issue, and every threat to the American people.”.

(B) “We still need to re-balance, integrate, and optimize collection capabilities to meet current and future customer and analytic priorities. Collection is . . . what gives the [Intelligence Community] its ‘competitive advantage’ in protecting the United States and its interests.”.

(C) “One challenge to improving the coverage of emerging and strategic issues across the Intelligence Community has been the diversion of resources to current crisis support . . .”.

(D) “Collection against terrorists in places like Iraq and Afghanistan took a substantial share of the [Intelligence Community’s] resources and efforts in FY 2006.”.

1 (E) “With so many [Intelligence Commu-
2 nity] resources dedicated to the War on Terror 3 and WMD programs in closed regimes, the [In-4 telligence] Community’s collection efforts still 5 have to devote significant attention to potential 6 or emerging threats of strategic consequence.”.

7 (7) On January 23, 2007, the Deputy Director 8 of National Intelligence for Collection testified to the 9 Select Committee on Intelligence of the Senate that 10 there is a “need to get the Intelligence Community 11 back to what I grew up calling global reach”, stating 12 that “we don’t have that today”. She further testi-
13 fied that “our challenge is . . . with [Congress] help 14 [to get back] to a place where we can do global 15 reach, and pay attention to places that we are not.”.

16 (8) On February 14, 2008, the Director of Na-
17 tional Intelligence testified to the Select Committee 18 on Intelligence of the Senate that “certainly current 19 crisis support takes a disproportionate share” of in-20 telligence resources over emerging and strategic 21 issues.

22 (9) In responses to questions posed by the Se-
23 lect Committee on Intelligence of the Senate in ad-
24 vance of the February 5, 2009 hearing on the nomi-
25 nation of Leon Panetta to be Director of the Central

1 Intelligence Agency, Mr. Panetta stated that “I am
2 also concerned that we have not devoted sufficient 3 resources to a broader set of national intelligence
4 challenges – such as Russia, China, the global eco-5 nomic downturn, as well as unstable and weak gov-
6 ernments in places such as Africa and Latin Amer-7 ica.”.

8 (10) On February 12, 2009, the Director of 9 National Intelligence testified to the Select Com-
10 mittee on Intelligence of the Senate that “I’d say 11 the most significant gaps are the areas that are not 12 traditional state threats, that we have not figured 13 out the right way to collect information and we have 14 not grown the analysts to do it. . . . We’re not as 15 good with non-state actors.”.

16 (11) On March 26, 2009, the Director of Na-17 tional Intelligence stated that “We re-evaluate that 18 National Intelligence Priority Framework formally 19 ever six months and informally, as we have. And its 20 quite remarkable, if you – you know those time-lapse 21 pictures where things change? If you showed a time-
22 lapse picture of that National Intelligence Priority
23 Framework, you’d see, sort of, colors shifting over 24 time as things came up, in terms of their threat or 25 in terms of an opportunity that they – so I just, I

1 think it's a mistake to tie us down to, this is my im-
2 portant priority. There are enduring things we have 3 to spend a lot of time on because you can't instantly 4 generate intelligence about a country that's very 5 good at keeping its secrets that you know is going 6 to be a factor for a long time. And we have to work 7 on those – we have to work on those every time. We 8 have to keep an excellent baseline understanding of 9 what's going on in the world, but then we need to 10 be able to flex.”.

11 (12) The National Commission on Terrorist At-12 tacks Upon the United States (hereinafter referred 13 to as the “9/11 Commission”) reported that “To 14 find sanctuary, terrorist organizations have fled to 15 some of the least governed, most lawless places in 16 the world. The intelligence community has prepared 17 a world map that highlights possible terrorist ha-18 vens, using no secret intelligence – just indicating 19 areas that combine rugged terrain, weak governance, 20 room to hide or receive supplies, and low population 21 density with a town or city near enough to allow 22 necessary interaction with the outside world. Large 23 areas scattered around the world meet these cri-
24 teria.”.

1 (13) The 9/11 Commission recommended that 2 the “U.S. government must identify and prioritize 3 actual or potential terrorist sanctuaries. For each, it 4 should have a realistic strategy to keep possible ter-
5 rorists insecure and on the run, using all elements 6 of national power. We should reach out, listen to, 7 and work with other countries that can help.”.

8 (14) On May 6, 2008, the Acting Director of 9 the National Counterterrorism Center testified to 10 the Select Committee on Intelligence of the Senate 11 that “I wish I had more resources to dedicate to 12 longer-term threats, absolutely,” that “much of the 13 information about the instability that can lead to 14 safe havens or ideological radicalization comes not 15 from covert collection but from open collection, best 16 done by Foreign Service officers,” and that there 17 should be ways to direct resources toward whoever 18 is best positioned to learn about safe-haven condi-
19 tions.

20 (15) On November 1, 2005, the Director of Na-
21 tional Intelligence Open Source Center was estab-
22 lished with functions that “include collection, anal-23 ysis and research, training, and information tech-
24 nology management to facilitate government-wide 25 access and use” of openly available information.

1 (16) The Strategic Plan of the Department of 2 State provides as a strategic goal that “Our diplo-3 matic and development activities will reduce the 4 threat or impact of violent conflict by developing 5 early warning . . . capability.”.

6 (17) On January 22, 2009, James Steinberg, a 7 nominee to be Deputy Secretary of State, testified to 8 the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate 9 that “if we’re going to be effective in this move to-10 wards smart power, then we have to understand how 11 we reprioritize our resources to be able to achieve 12 that. . . If we only think about the crisis of the mo-
13 ment, then we’re not prepared as new challenges 14 emerge. And we’ve seen this time and time again, 15 that issues that were not immediately on the radar 16 screen don’t get the attention they deserve. . . . So 17 the idea of looking forward and trying to figure out 18 over the long term where our priorities need to be, 19 how do we anticipate some of these challenges, and 20 then judge how we have sort of assigned resources 21 to take care of not only those current needs but also 22 those long-term challenges I think has to be very im-
23 portant and part of a strategic planning strat-
24 egy. . . although we have a very strong intelligence 25 community, that there is a tremendous resource of 1 people who've lived and worked out in the countries 2 that we're dealing with and that, for a variety of 3 reasons, the intelligence community is not always the 4 best equipped to do that. They bring their own spe-5 cial skills. But the Foreign Service officers, and also 6 people from outside the government, are enormous 7 sources of information and value. And we need to 8 find better ways, in my judgment, to have more con-9 tact with people in the private sector, from the 10 NGOs, from the business community, from univer-

11 sities and the like, as part of our being able to touch 12 and feel what's going on the ground.”.

13 (18) On January 22, 2009, Jacob Lew, a nomi-14 nee to be Deputy Secretary of State, testified to the 15 Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate that 16 “I believe strongly that resources have to follow pri-17 orities. The decision of where we need to be and 18 what kinds of skills we need have to fit into a com-19 prehensive strategy. . . . We need to work with our 20 other Cabinet agency partners. There are 20 govern-21 ment agencies that have resources that work in or 22 through our embassies. We don't need to recreate 23 the wheel; we need to cooperate with each other and 24 make sure that we have enough Foreign Service, 25 civil service and locally engaged staff so that we can

1 effectively coordinate the efforts that the United 2 States puts on the ground. I think that it all begins 3 with the strategic planning process. If we don't have 4 a clear vision of what we need and what we want, 5 were not going to be able to make the right resource 6 allocation decisions. And we have to be able to look 7 beyond this week, next week, or even next year. . . .
 8 We need to reach not just into the building but all 9 the way into the field and make it clear that we have 10 every intention of bringing the resources of the State 11 Department to bear as we deal with these kinds of 12 problems and challenges abroad, that we have 13 knowledge in our embassies, in our consulates, about 14 a range of issues, not just political issues — eco-15 nomic issues, scientific issues, cultural issues — that 16 give us the broadest understanding of what's going 17 on in an increasingly global world.”.

18 (19) The Legal Attache offices and sub-offices 19 of the Federal Bureau of Investigation are currently 20 located in 75 cities around the world, providing cov-21 erage for more than 200 countries, territories, and 22 islands.

23 (20) On October 4, 2007, Thomas V. Fuentes,
 24 Assistant Director of the Federal Bureau of Inves-
 25 tigation for Office of International Operations, testi-

1 fied to the Subcommittee on Border, Maritime, and 2 Global Counterterrorism of the Committee on Home-
3 land Security of the House of Representatives that 4 the “core mission” of the Legal Attache offices “is 5 to establish and maintain liaison with principal law 6 enforcement and security services in designated for-7 eign countries. . . enabl[ing] the FBI to effectively 8 and expeditiously conduct its responsibilities in com-
9 bating international terrorism, organized crime, 10 cyber crime, and general criminal matters,” and that 11 while “they do not conduct foreign intelligence gath-12 ering,” “typical duties” include . . . “conducting in-13 vestigations in coordination with the host govern-
14 ment; sharing investigative leads and information;
15 briefing Embassy counterparts from other agencies,
16 including law enforcement agencies, as appropriate,
17 and Ambassadors. . . providing situation reports 18 concerning cultural protocol; [and] assessing political 19 and security climates.”.

20 (21) The July 2008 Preliminary Findings by 21 the Project on National Security Reform, entitled 22 “Enduring Security in an Unpredictable World: the 23 Urgent Need for National Security Reform,” in-24 cluded the following:

1 (A) The lack of a national security strat-
2 egy that clearly links ends, ways, and means
3 and assigned roles and responsibilities to each 4 department has encouraged a proliferation of 5 department-level strategies. These department 6 strategies are uncoordinated and do not system-
7 atically generate capabilities required for na-
8 tional objectives

9 (B) The resource allocation process is not 10 driven by any overall national plan or strategy
11 for achieving broad objectives, and the results 12 or effectiveness of the budgeting process cannot 13 be measured against such objectives.

14 (C) The national security system tends to 15 overemphasize traditional security threats and 16 under emphasize emerging challenges.
